(beauty killer)

I believe this song has a lot of true meaning. She's pretty much telling you that she was probably misjudged most likely growing up. To think outside beauty always over powers inner beauty. We see the world through magazines and billboards lots of models of very attractive but can be cruel and ill-mannered. So now to her the only thing important is now vanity. To be beautiful everything else is monotone, jaded ,nothing's special And that so many people including her are so obsessed with outside beauty that nothing is new anymore and it disgusts her that she is so obsessed as are we. Her fears the day she dies because he will no longer have control over how she looks. Knowing her body will rot away .but also at the same time also so miserable that she says she can. because everyone thinks real beauty is on the outside.

(get away with murder)

I believe this song was given or meant for an ex-lover and she probably liked this person to certain extent but she feels like she is acting as someone that's not her. She feels almost numb to an extent. She was probably so upset with the person she just wanted to break their heart and get away with murder. When she says did you forget love was dangerous and you should have known that it wouldn't last forever I feel like she may be talking to herself. I also feel like some of the lyrics is this person saying to her and she heard it so much that she started believing it. So she probably feels like she hurt them and she will love them more when they dead.

I find the album very important to Jettie because it's how she got famous to a certain extent so much so that famous drag queen RuPaul noticed her and this season of RuPaul's drag race she is judging because of paparazzi and diehard fans. I really enjoy this album because it makes me have confidence in who I am she had to through a lot and her songs make me feel better. Lots of critics think her music is from 3 stars to about 3 and a half. Lots of people in the LGBT+ community will beg to differ my sister says it's a solid 4 stars. I see it as 5 stars. So I recommend this album or artist to anyone who wants to rock out or just have a smile all day.
