

Bruno mars

Doo-Wops & Hooligans

Doo-Wops & Hooligans youtube link

Bruno Mars (Peter Gene Hernandez) was born in Honolulu, Hawaii on October 8, 1985. He is known for his stage performances, retro showmanship, and for performing in a wide range of musical styles, including pop , R&B , funk , soul , reggae , disco , and rock .

As a child, Mars was greatly influenced by artists such as Little Richard, Elvis Presley, and Michael Jackson, and often impersonated these artists at an early age. Mars also incorporates reggae and Motown inspired sounds into his work

The Doo-wops and hooligans. album was influenced by many artists and by the struggles and failures of Mars and the Doo-wops. As a result, the album received mostly positive reviews, but also some criticism.

Mars grew up exposed to many different styles of music from an early age. He possesses many musical techniques and a beautiful, transfigured voice. As a result, Doo-Wops and Hooligans contains elements of rock, reggae, R&B, soul, and hip-hop.

But Doo-Wops and Hooligans' cultural influence goes beyond music: the 2010s was a decade in which digital media shined and creative music videos and visuals exploded alongside radio chart-toppers. Mars' music video showcased his creative progress and performance streak, rewarding him with overnight Internet virality. A strange and favorite simple song, "Lazy Song," featuring Mars in the bedroom with five men in monkey costumes, has racked up nearly two billion views since it was first posted. The iconoclastic super single "Just The Way You Are" also topped 1 billion views, with "Grenade" following close behind.

The most notable Mars song is "Just the Way You Are," which was the best-selling digital single of 2011 years, selling more than 12.5 million copies, and the song reached #1 on the US Billboard Hot 100, Australia, It reached #1 on the charts in Canada, New Zealand, and the U.K., and peaked in the Top 5 in other countries.

Just the Way You Are

The music video is the most noteworthy aspect of this song. The music video for this song uses a cassette tape throughout, and the song begins with a stretch of the tape. Mars then uses the tape to draw Mars and the women in the music video. This was a very exciting music video at the time, and Mars was more than capable of making a big impact visually.

I was probably six or seven years old when I first saw this music video. I didn't understand the meaning of the English at the time and just enjoyed watching the video and listening to the music, but the video still left a strong impression on me.

As I recall, this song became famous in Japan soon after its release. In Japan, Japanese songs were much more popular than English songs because people could not understand the lyrics of the English songs, but the catchy song and the very attractive video spread quickly in Japan. Nowadays, people in Japan must recognize it as a very famous song.

Granade Granade

"Grenade" was well received by critics, who praised the song's vocals and emotional lyrics and also considered it one of the standout tracks of Doo Wops & Hooligans. The single reached #1 in 15 countries, giving Mars its third number one single on the Billboard Hot 100 and its third consecutive week on the Canadian Hot 100.

The lyrics convey the message of unrequited love and how Mars' heart was broken despite his best efforts to show her his love

He stated in an interview about the song. "It's a heartbreaking, heartbreak song, and I think everyone can relate to that. you're so in love with this woman and you don't understand, ' What am I doing wrong? what am I not giving to you? i'll go as far as putting a bullet in my brain for you, and why can't I get that kind of love in return ?'"

The music video for this song is also quite charming, and throughout the song Mars drags his piano and pushes it long distances for the person he has always loved. Mars, who is heartbroken, faces many hardships every time he drags his via, such as heavy rain and gangs on the cold night streets, and the images of Mars suffering throughout the song and his perfect voice make this song a perfect song.

It's really amazing to see such perfection in a debut album...

Pop melodies that everyone will love and charismatic vocals. This is the work of a new genius with a talent reminiscent of Michael Jackson or Elvis Presley.

Takumi Okamoto

